Cooperation of professional and local communities to improve quality of healthcare services, rehabilitation and social inclusion in border areas of Estonia and Russia

ERgonomics ER153

SUMMARY OF THE PROJECT

“ERgonomics” project aims to foster cooperation of professional and local communities to improve quality of healthcare services, rehabilitation and social inclusion in border areas of Estonia and Russia; to make the society more tolerant and attentive to the quality of everyday life of people with special needs.

During the project 50 employees from both health and social care partner organizations will be involved in vocational training courses during which exchange of the best practices in healthcare, treatments and social services will be ensured.

Also Inclusion Days will be organized for local inhabitants who will be offered to choose one of disabilities (to wear a dark mask or sit in the wheelchair and to move inside the building). Thus they will get to know better ergonomic solutions and improve life quality for their relatives or neighbours with special needs.

To improve the quality of the providing services, equal access to the healthcare small investments and purchase of equipment and consumables will be made by the project partners.
